

2009 Juan Gil

Marinated flank steak seared over white hot coals calls for a full bodied and ripe styled red to help it along and this effort from Spain's Jumilla region does the trick. A delight for those who like their reds with a bit of power, Juan Gil delivers heady aromatics of black fruit and deep flavors of cassis and mocha. Made from the region's beloved Monastrell grape, it is the perfect casual call for beef lovers this grilling season. $14.99

2010 Clos des Briords Muscadet Sevre & Maine

From an upper tier of Marc Ollivier's fabulous Domaine de la Pepiere, and vines classified as "Vieilles Vignes", this wine is bottled sur lie, going straight from lees contact to bottling without racking, making it a natural wine lover's dream. This process lends a creaminess to the wine adding complexity to the naturally briny minerality we identify with Muscadet. Delicious and affordable this is the wine for all your shellfish endeavors, from softshell crabs to lobsters to oysters and clams. It's a can't miss. $14.99

2009 Foradori

Elisabetta Foradori took over this estate in Italy's Dolomite region at the age of 20 upon the death of her father. The circumstances were tragic but she accepted the challenge and today has directed the eyes of the wine world on her accomplishments with the Teroldego grape. Bordeaux-like in weight, structure and finesse, her amazing work is worth a look. Certified as an organic and biodynamic property, this wine provides fine service with veal chops, grilled beef and hard cheeses. $19.99

2009 Francois Pinon Vouvray "Cuvee Tradition"

Francois Pinon moved to the helm of his family's estate in 1987 and has become recognized as one of Vouvray's finest producers. Operating in a natural fashion, Pinon does not employ chemicals in either the growing or winemaking process. The Loire Valley enjoyed a superb growing season in 2009 and Pinon's Vouvray reflects the harvest beautifully. One can always depend on the Chenin Blanc grape for exotic flavor and this wine is no exception. Laced savory hints of honeysuckle, minerals and citrus it is a classic wine for your seafood menus. $19.99
